Avatar Goal: Get to my family home for shelter and the cookbook to teach me how to feed myself & my baby in a famine
 Avatar Obstacles: The Forest, the weather, my unreliable imagination, my pregnancy
 Theme: Is my life story a fairytale that I have been telling myself to avoid the truth of who I am in my family are?
 Tone: Female Gothic

What Remains of Hansel & Gretel
 Chapter One

STORY STACK
 Player Fantasy: Be Gretel and survive the famine
 Player Actions: Search for shelter, food, the journal, read all or part of the journal
 Player Economies: Shelter, Food, information
 World: A Desolate Forest in Winter, 14th Century Europe during a decades long famine
 Story: Pregnant Gretel wants to find food, shelter, and information to feed herself and her baby during a famine.

Trigger warning: if you're pregnant this story might not be for you

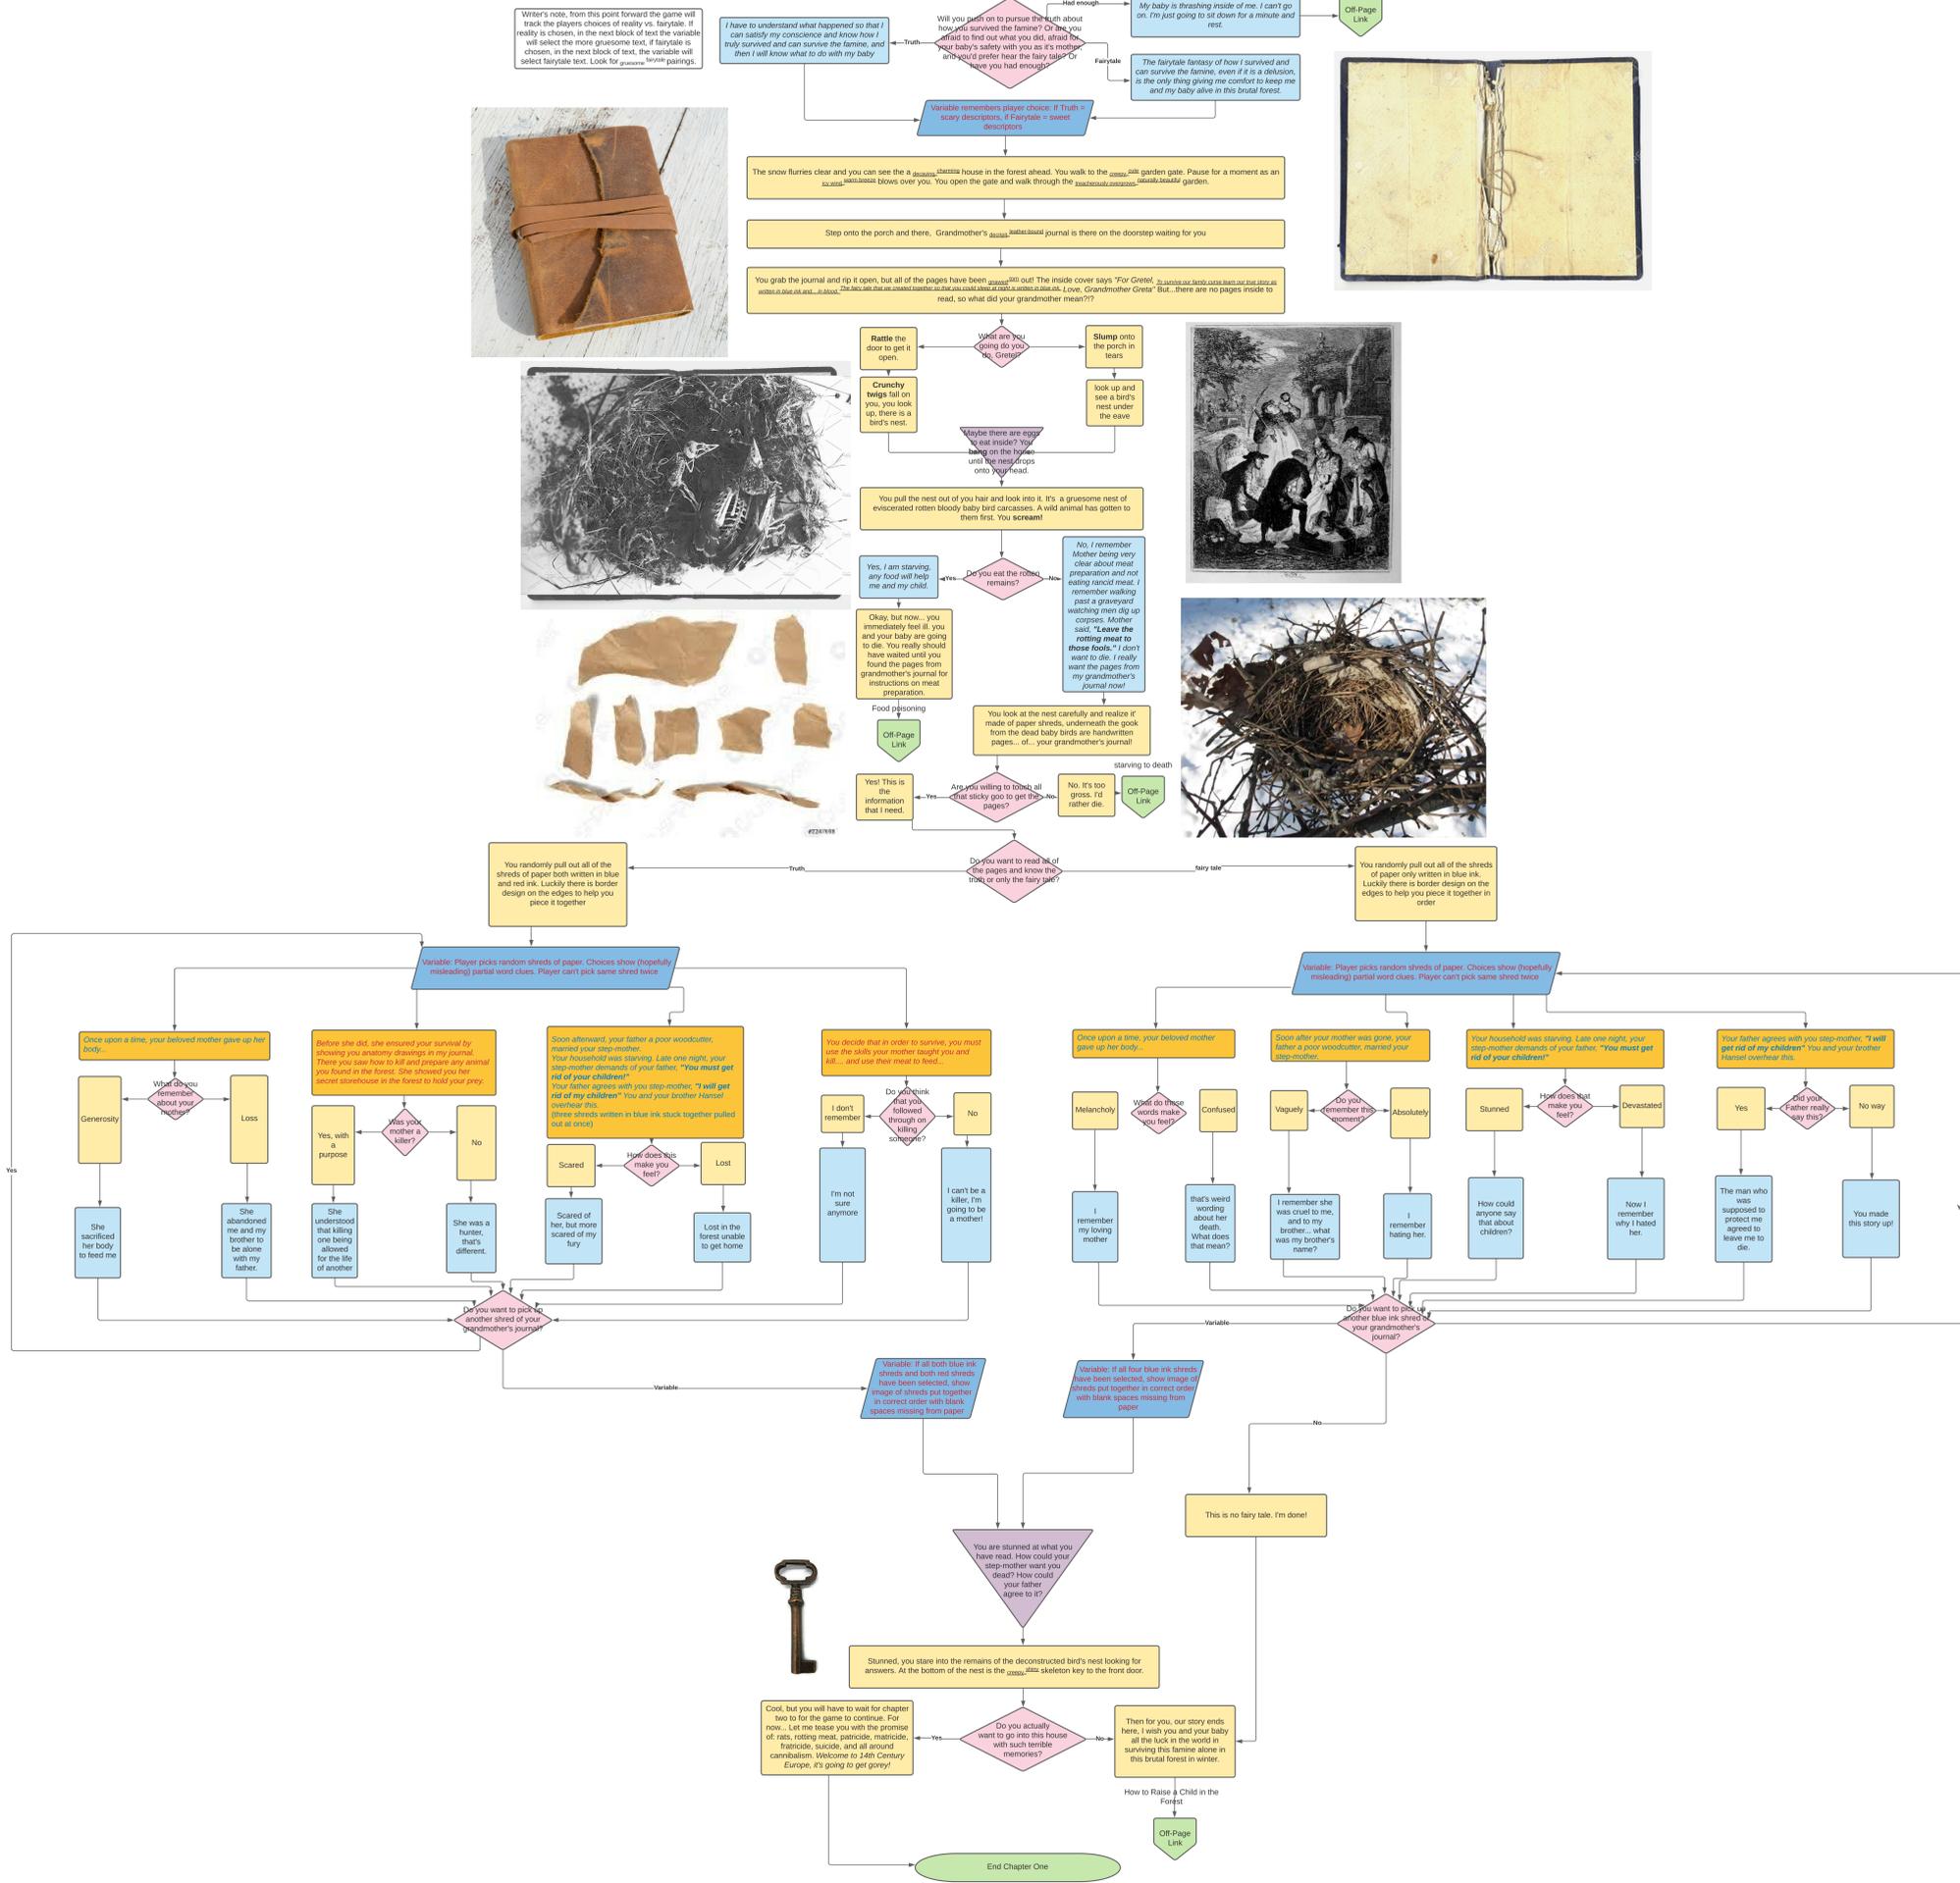

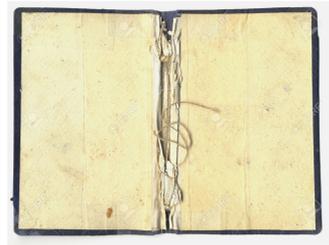

Writer's Note: Key words in the text will be blurry/fading in and out to indicate possible delusional "fairytale" thought. A few woodcuts will be included to set the visual style.

I am tracking key words related to: baby, cookbook, food, meat to make sure that I am focused on my goals. Tied the cookbook to be able to keep my baby well-fed, and foreshadowing cannibalism.

I've noticed that I am straying from the original story, so I am going to highlight in green original story elements.
